Co-Decision and the 2013 French Tech Tour

French Tech Tour

Organised by Ubifrance – a French government agency - the French Tech Tour is a program which offers a pre-selected group of French high-tech companies the opportunity to accelerate their business development in the United States.

The selection is made by a consortium of large high-tech companies. Co-Decision was honored to be selected by Amazon, Oracle, AT&T, Cisco and Symantec.

In addition to meetings face-to-face with C-level individuals of the above companies Co-Decision was able to organize outside additional meetings during the week with the help of Ubifrance's team.

As a participating start-up in the 2013 French Tech Tour, Co-Decision was given the opportunity to establish long term relationships with several major companies in the Silicon Valley and better evaluate its chances to penetrate the American market and confirm the market's readiness for the Co-Mining® technology and decider.track.
